

Highlights

- Active travel is influenced by perceptions neighborhood conditions
- Rickshaw is more probable when perceptions of crime are poor
- Cycling is more probable when perceptions of walking conditions are good
- Improving perceptions of crime helps only after other perceptions are improved
- Improving perceptions also makes cycling more probable for longer trips